Oregano-Based Essential Oil Additive to Support Poultry Gut Health

Oregano essential oil is widely documented for its impressive range of health benefits; in particular its antimicrobial and antioxidant properties makes it highly sought after for use in animal systems to support a healthy digestive system and boost natural disease resistance.

Orego-Stim Liquid is part of Anpario's leading Orego-Stim range, which contains essential oil from the oregano plant that is specific to Anpario. The plants are cultivated to have the perfect balance of active ingredients that include carvacrol and thymol, this is beneficial in stress response management, gut health and appetite improvement, all of which are essential for keeping the animals healthy and happy.

The Orego-Stim range is manufactured in the UK using proprietary techniques and rigorous quality standards to ensure a consistently high quality product.
